Divisions 8800 and 8900 utilize some of the most modern design innovations available today to give better, more efficient care to patients.

The Critical Care Center: New and Improved Location and Equipment

The Critical Care Center (comprising the Coronary Care Unit, Respiratory Care Unit and General Medical Intensive Care Unit) is one of the most dramatic care programs in a hospital. For the heart attack victim or patient with respiratory or kidney failure, every second is critical. Any slight sudden fluctuation in a vital sign demands immediate attention. Nurses must keep a constant watch on every patient in the unit, which is not an easy task.

This past June, two new intensive care divisions, 8800 and 8900, opened on the eighth floor of the Shoenberg Pavilion. These units contain some of the most modern facilities available to care for the critical patient.

Division 8800 is a 28-bed telemetry unit at the west end of the building. Patients with heart irregularities but not needing intensive care are cared for there. Through a radio wave system called telemetry, a patient who needs monitoring but does not need to be confined to a bed can have his heart watched no matter where he is on the unit. Any 12 patients can be monitored continuously by trained personnel at a central station.

Division 8900 at the east end of the Shoenberg Pavilion, is divided into two parts: A 12-bed Coronary Care Unit and a 10-bed unit for acute medical patients.

Patient Rooms Fully Visible

This division is designed so that each patient can be seen from the adjacent nursing station through windows in the patient room. There are wall-sized windows to the outdoors, the halls are carpeted and the rooms are less crowded than the original unit built in 1967 on the fourth floor of the Kingshighway Pavilion. There are also more nursing stations, which, says Division 8900 Head Nurse Gail Poelker, "Makes us closer to the patients. The big windows are good for

The cardiac arrest cart contains all the equipment needed should a patient go into cardiac arrest. On top is a heart monitor and recorder, below are drawers containing emergency medicines and other equipment. The two paddles are the defibrillator which sends electric impulses to the heart muscle.

The Critical Care Center:

The special procedures room in Division 8900 has new portable fluoroscopy (x-ray) equipment which allows medical personnel to use radiology techniques to watch pacemaker implantations and other special procedures.

All patient rooms in Division 8900 have windows so a nurse can see the patients from the station.

patient and staff morale. The noise factor is improved because things are really spread out and this helps decrease stress for patients and staff."

Also in Division 8900 is a Special Procedures Room equipped with a portable fluoroscopy unit. This x-ray machine makes it possible for medical personnel to view the patient during a pacemaker implantation or insertion of a Swan Ganz Catheter. (This is the procedure of inserting a catheter directly into the heart to measure blood pressure when it is too low to be measured by any other means.) All of this equipment is portable and can be taken into the patient's room if the patient is too ill to be moved.

plicated process, the image this camera picks up can be constructed into a picture of the beating heart. Doctors can detect which areas of the heart muscle are not moving and can better diagnose and treat a heart attack.

"The monitoring equipment is of the most advanced type and measures blood pressure as well as heart rate and arrhythmia," said Ms. Poelker. "Soon we are going to get a computer system that detects changes in the heart rhythm. If it is a major change, it has an audible sound and light. It's kind of like 1984 to me."

Divisions 8800 and 8900 opened in the middle of June. With the addition of these two units, Jewish Hospital can offer the best and most modern care available to its patients.

Medical Technology School Holds Commencement

Mabel Howell, Vice President, spoke at the commencement exercises of the School of Medical Technology.

On Friday, July 6, the ten students in the Jewish Hospital School of Medical Technology graduated. Mabel Howell, Hospital Vice President, gave the commencement address.

Mrs. Howell spoke of the importance of the medical technology field, and the dedication needed to work in it.

"At the Jewish Hospital, we will perform over one million lab tests in 1979. The department will spend approximately 11 per cent of the entire Hospital budget in producing the results of these tests. So your work in a department such as this is extremely important," she said.

"You as Medical Technologists, wherever you accept employment, are dedicated to performing with accuracy and in a professional manner. Reliability of your work upon which medical decisions are made must always be uppermost in your established goals."

"In enabling you to complete your degree through your work at this Hospital, we are fulfilling part of our mission, and hopefully have provided the necessary stimulation for your success," Mrs. Howell said.

School Provides Technologists for Hospital

Since 1967, when Jewish Hospital opened the School of Medical Technology, 94 students have graduated. Of that number, 45 joined the Jewish Hospital staff following graduation, and 21 are still here. By training Technologists in the School, the Hospital not only provides education for this important field, but helps fill its own laboratory needs.

Shirley Rush receives her diploma from Dr. Meyer.

The money Channel 8, KARE-TV got from the Associates was used to buy a "juke box," a machine which automatically changes the program cassettes at pre-set times. This enables Channel 8 to run for 24 hours straight without having anybody around.

Bob Morrison, Media Specialist who runs Channel 8, sets the juke box to run programs at certain intervals.

Associates Hold Annual Dinner

The Associates of The Jewish Hospital of St. Louis gave $10,000 of additional funding to Channel 8 KARE-TV at their annual dinner on May 8. This gift to the Hospital, which last year was devoted entirely to starting the in-house television station, was divided into four different gifts this year.

In addition to the gift to KARE, the Associates donated funds to the Division of Rehabilitation Medicine to purchase an electrical stimulator and two television sets to the Emergency Room and Clinic waiting area. The Emergency Room also received a teletype apparatus that will allow deaf people to use the telephone to call in and out of the Hospital. The Department of Surgery received a doppler flowmeter to measure blood flow in the extremities.

Richard L. Meyerhardt, retiring president, spoke of the various activities the Associates have participated in for the Hospital in the past year. They have organized a speakers bureau composed of members of the medical staff and conducted panel discussions on drug abuse, the pain therapy clinic, and "Sex As We Grow Older." "I feel that the Associates not only should continue these programs that they now have, but find new programs that will make persons more knowledgeable about the Hospital," he said.

Lester Seasongood Elected President of Associates

Installation of Officers

The new 1979-80 officers were installed and new members of the Board of Directors were elected. Lester Seasongood was installed as the new president. The rest of the officers are: Ira J. Kodner, M.D. and Joyce Yalem, vice presidents; Beverly Kaufer, R.N., secretary; Ronald Ross, treasurer.

Eight new directors were elected to the Associates' Board: Martin Bergmann, M.D., Harvey Brown, Marion Eastman, Patricia Kaiser, Leonard Krane, Kenneth Langsdorf, Jr., Harvey Liebhaber, M.D. and David Pasternak. Pasternak, a past president, is serving his third term on the Board.

Five were re-elected to serve a second term: June Bierman, Felecia Fleischman, Ira J. Kodner, M.D., Eugene Schweig, Jr. and Lester Seasongood.

Henry Langer, Director of the Department of Education, thanks the Associates for the donation to the patient education station Channel 8 KARE-TV.

Lester Seasongood, new president of the Associates, expressed the hope that "most of you, the Associates, will share your ideas and your efforts with us next year."

Singing Doctors Entertain at Associates Annual Meeting

You don't see barbershop quartets and good old four-part harmony much these days. This year the Associates decided to change that, and added a little spice to their annual dinner. They brought in "The Singing Doctors," a group of real live doctors, not barbers, from Springfield, Missouri.

The "Docs" kept the crowd in stitches with their animated renditions of life from a doctor's point of view. Their four-part harmony and a varied display of illustrative costumes told the laughters and woes of everything from waiting rooms to delivering babies. It was obvious who in the crowd were doctors—they were laughing the hardest.

The Singing Doctors perform regularly at various functions, in addition to keeping up their own private practices in Springfield. They write all their own lyrics and have produced at least five record albums. All the money they raise is set aside for scholarships to medical students. To date, they have collected over $260,000.

Joel Oliver, Pharm.D., points out some commonly abused drugs. One of the exhibits at the Health Fair will be a mini-pharmacy presented by the Jewish Hospital Pharmacy Department.

Mitchel L. Wolf, M.D., Director of the Department of Ophthalmology, checks for glaucoma in the eyes of Edith Spinks, Mayor of Ladue. The same test will be available to visitors.

Health Sunday: October 28, 1979

Harold B. Sitrin, M.D. works with a young patient in his office. Dr. Sitrin's presentation on the "Psychological Development of Young Children" is just one of the many topics at the Health Fair to choose from.

Our health is the single most important and most overlooked aspect of our lives. Jewish Hospital is here to deal with the big problems that come up. But the more we know about our own health, the better we can deal with the little problems ourselves.

The Jewish Hospital Auxiliary is holding its Second Annual Family Health Fair to give you the opportunity to learn things about your health that you rarely have a chance to learn. The whole family will benefit from the 60 exhibits and 15 seminars concerning every aspect of physical and mental health imaginable. Free health tests are available to all. There will be puppet shows, cartoons and a sing-along for the kids.

Exhibits representing almost all departments of the Hospital will appear, from Biofeedback and the Emergency Room to Preparation for Childbirth and nutrition. Testing will include diabetes screening, blood pressure and glaucoma testing, stress testing and vision screening. There will be demonstrations from physical and occupational therapy, aerobic dancing, physical fitness exercises for older adults and emergency medical assistance.

Among the films shown will be "The Operating Room World—Behind Closed Doors," "Preparation for Childbirth," and a slide presentation of "hospital cost containment."

Local medical experts will give a wide variety of lectures and seminars throughout the day, including "Sports and the Teenager," "Fighting to Save Your Marriage," "Coping with Death," "Parenting Your Parents," "Teenage Sexuality" and "Cancer Cures and Causes."

Last year 2,000 people came to catch an extra insight into the workings of their bodies and the health care field. According to Fair Chairperson Phyllis Langsdorf, two cases of scoliosis, four cases of glaucoma and eight cases of high blood pressure were discovered as a result of the screening tests.

This year's fair will be from noon to six p.m. Sunday, October 28, 1979 at Ladue High School (Horton Watkins) at Warson and Clayton Roads. If it's anything like last year it should be one of the most interesting and informative days a family can spend.

Ben Fixman

Fixmans Establish Cancer Research Fund

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Fixman have recently established the Ben and Marilyn Fixman Cancer Research Fund with a very generous gift to the Hospital.

Mr. Fixman is Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer of Diversified Industries, Inc. Both he and Mrs. Fixman have long been active in Jewish philanthropies, both on a local and national level.

William A. Peck, M.D., Physician in Chief at the Hospital, said income from the endowment will be used for programs in cancer research. "Their idea for the fund is innovative and generous," Dr. Peck said. "I feel that their support will aid us in our development of a truly outstanding program in cancer research."

Income generated by this fund will finance laboratory studies in various oncology research projects. One of these is the study of the regulation of cancer research projects. One of these is the study of the regulation of cancer cell growth. One key enzyme regulates several nutrients for the growth of any cell. This enzyme is regulated differently in cancer cells than in normal cells and therein may lie a key to modifying the growth of cancer cells.

Marilyn Fixman

The Division of Hematology and Oncology, headed by Thomas Deuel, M.D., is developing methods of regulating cancer cell growth reflected through changes in cellular DNA synthesis. DNA is the molecule that contains all the genetic information for that cell.

These and other projects in cancer cell growth have the potential to develop new approaches to tumor therapy.

Sufrin Chairs Cancer Workshop

Gerald Sufrin, M.D., was selected by the UICC (International Union Against Cancer) to organize and chair a workshop on "Renal Adenocarcinoma," which was held recently in Geneva, Switzerland. The aim of the workshop was to summarize and review current research in the field of renal adenocarcinoma with emphasis on biochemistry, epidemiology, histopathology and newer techniques in diagnosis and treatment.

Participants in the program included investigators from the United States, France, Scotland, Israel, Australia, Switzerland and Holland.

A further goal of this workshop is to identify areas that seem particularly fruitful for future investigation. In addition to serving as chairman of this workshop and presenting a paper, "Animal Models of Renal Adenocarcinoma," it is the Workshop Chairman's function to edit and publish a monograph of the proceedings.

Nurse for a Day

The Jewish Hospital School of Nursing will hold an Open House Sat., Nov. 17. Tours will start at 1 p.m. Those interested are asked to call 454-7055 if they would like to make reservations.

Research at Jewish Hospital

Many years ago Dr. Jacob Probst made a house call on Mrs. Florence May during an illness. She questioned Dr. Probst why research was not done at Jewish Hospital. With the reply that there were no funds, she promptly gave Dr.

Probst a check for $1,500 and asked him to see that it got to a research group.

At the same time Drs. Sam Gray and Michael Somogyi were trying to find funding to study diseases of the pancreas. Dr. Probst turned the funds over to them. As the research progressed, works were published in the bulletin and in leading journals which brought national and international attention to Jewish Hospital. Other researchers were Dr. Carl Heifetz, Dr. Leo Sachar, and many of the physicians still on our staff who were finishing their residencies at that time. The Somogyi test for pancreatitis still stands as the diagnostic method in determining whether the disease is a medical or surgical problem.

Dr. Herman Blumenthal collaborated with Dr. Probst to write a book after the untimely death of Dr. Sam Gray in 1950. The Mays and the Monnheimers gave their continuing financial support during this period.

On June 20, 1979, Dr. Jacob Probst, left, and Mr. & Mrs. Morton D. May visited Rothschild library at Jewish Hospital to see a display of research done during the 1930's through 1950's. Thanks to the far-sightedness and interest of his mother, Mrs. Florence May, Jewish Hospital has become one of the select research hospitals in the nation.

The Shopping List

Gifts to Jewish Hospital, whether large or small, are very much appreciated because they aid the Hospital in maintaining the highest standards of health care.

The Shopping List is a special feature listing particular items and their approximate costs for which various Hospital departments have indicated a need.

This list is published to give the community an idea of the many different pieces of equipment every department requires to function efficiently, and also to allow prospective donors to choose a specific gift if they so desire.

Remember, your generosity might help save a life. A contribution used toward the purchase of a fetal heart monitor, for example, might mean it is more readily available when an emergency situation arises in the labor room. The early warning of any problems during labor that it provides might mean the difference between life and death for a newborn infant.

For more information on The Shopping List, contact the Development office, at 454-7257.

The Jewish Hospital of St. Louis

Introduction

During much of its history The Jewish Hospital of St. Louis has experienced tremendous growth and expansion, as well as great scientific, technological and social changes. The Hospital is continually changing and advancing to meet the current and future needs of the community it serves.

Recent developments in science and technology have had a profound effect on health care. Diagnostic equipment, medical procedures and techniques which did not even exist a few years ago are now almost routine. The Jewish Hospital has acquired the most modern equipment and trained people in the newest approaches to provide the best of modern medicine to its patients.

These changes and expansion are especially important to the unique position held by the Jewish Hospital. As a major teaching affiliate of Washington University School of Medicine, the Hospital is able to keep its tradition of service to the neighborhood, as well as treat the most difficult medical conditions.

The Hospital is very proud of its accomplishments and looks forward to a bright future.

Department of Anesthesiology

The Department of Anesthesiology performs more than 10,000 procedures on patients in the operating room and obstetrical unit. Physicians and nurses in this department also assist in cardiac arrests and in electric shock therapy. Medical anesthesiologists and nurse anesthetists are on call 24 hours a day for emergencies.

A division of this department is the Pain Clinic, where patients are referred for the treatment of chronic pain such as lower backache or headache.

Department of Dentistry

The Department of Dentistry also shows Jewish Hospital's dedication to serving the community. It was the first and is the only hospital in St. Louis to operate a 24-hour dental emergency service. It has an outpatient clinic offering complete dental care. It provides care for patients from the Jewish Center for Aged, the St. Louis State School and Hospital, and the St. Louis County Hospital. Recently the Dental Clinic has been working with the Mayor's Council on Aging to help provide denture service to the senior citizens of our community. The Dental Department also provides dental services for the handicapped and retarded under general anesthesia in the operating room through its Dental Fund for the Handicapped. The only General Practice Residency Program in Dentistry within a private general teaching hospital in Missouri is located at Jewish Hospital.

Department of Medicine

Diagnosis of disease, treatment and care of patients is the major role of the Department of Medicine, whose divisions include cardiology, gastroenterology, pulmonary disease, infectious disease, hematology and oncology, nephrology, bone and mineral metabolism, neurology, dermatology and arthritis. Patient care laboratories include pulmonary function, respiratory therapy, hematology, blood bank, coagulation and thrombosis, electroencephalography, immunology, cardiac catheterization, cardiac graphics, renal dialysis unit and gastrointestinal endoscopy.

Recent equipment installations and laboratory renovations add to this department's capabilities. The new Critical Care Center on the eighth floor of the Shoenberg Pavilion enables the staff to care for heart attack patients and patients with acute medical problems with the most modern equipment available. All patients are monitored constantly through a computer that sounds an alarm when it detects an irregular rhythm. A scanning device will be installed that permits non-invasive measurement of the heart muscle function. A special procedures room is equipped with fluoroscopy (x-ray) equipment which enables medical staff to use radiology techniques to view patients during procedures such as pacemaker implantation.

Department of Neurosurgery

The Department of Neurosurgery at Jewish Hospital was reorganized in 1977 with the appointment of Robert L. Grubb, M.D., as Director. A new dimension of quality patient care was gained through the addition of highly competent neurosurgeons and a strengthened relationship with the Washington University Medical School. Neurosurgery is concerned with diseases of brain, spinal cord, peripheral nerves, and muscles.

Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology

The Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology has undergone extensive remodeling both in its physical plant and in its programs. New delivery suites, equipment and birthing rooms have made the department one of the finest in the community, capable of caring for high risk pregnancies, which are on the rise. New programs include "rooming in", whereby the baby is kept at the mother's bedside; "sibling visitation", whereby older children are introduced to their baby brothers or sisters. In addition, fathers are now considered active participants in all phases of their children's births, both during normal and cesarean deliveries. This process, as well as rooming in and sibling visitation, combines to form the "family bonding" process which involves the entire family in the birth of the new child.

Department of Ophthalmology

The Department of Ophthalmology fills a critical community need through its various programs. Complete outpatient facilities with sophisticated diagnostic instrumentation serve over 4,000 private and clinic patients annually. A modern eye operating room with the latest in microsurgical equipment is used for over 550 operations each year. The ocular electrophysiology lab is the only facility of its kind in the state and receives many referrals for the evaluation of disorders of the retina and brain affecting vision. The department is now one of seven centers in the country evaluating a night vision aid for patients who cannot see in the dark.

Department of Otolaryngology

The Department of Otolaryngology provides services to patients with diseases of the ear, nose and throat, and problems of communication. The department has a full time staff of two physicians, two audiologists and three speech pathologists.

The physicians treat patients in the office and provide consultation services to the Hospital. A full range of surgical procedures related to ear, nose and throat, as well as head and neck tumor surgery, are performed by the physicians.

The audiologists perform sophisticated diagnostic audiometric testing and also evaluate patients for hearing aids.

Speech pathologists provide an entire range of services for patients with speech and voice disorders, working closely with the Department of Rehabilitation at the Hospital. The department is currently working on several research projects.

Department of Pathology and Laboratory Medicine

The Department of Otolaryngology is integrated with the Washington University Medical Center Otolaryngology Residency Program and has two residents rotating at the Jewish Hospital throughout the year.

The Department of Pathology and Laboratory Medicine performs more than 1,000,000 laboratory tests yearly. Pathologists spend considerable time in direct consultation with clinicians, helping with diagnosis and treatment decisions.

The department's divisions include microbiology, clinical chemistry, hematology, immunopathology and pathologic anatomy. The department serves as a National Reference Laboratory for the Center for Disease Control, a federal agency, in biochemistry and microbiology.

The research facilities include an electron microscopy facility and laboratories for virology, bone and mineral metabolism, tumor cell kinetics and immunology research.

Department of Pediatrics

The Department of Pediatrics supervises the newborn nursery and provides excellent medical care for every baby born at Jewish Hospital. Because most of its staff members are on the staff of nearby St. Louis Children's Hospital, medical pediatric cases are transferred to Children's Hospital.

Department of Psychiatry

A wide variety of treatment modalities are available in the Department of Psychiatry. Outpatient and consultation services which include pharmacotherapy, individual, group, marital and family therapies are provided by the full-time staff. The inpatient unit provides intensive therapy and activities to help patients reestablish healthy social relationships. An active biofeedback service is also maintained. Additionally, the outpatient psychiatric clinic offers individual and group therapy, as well as family counseling. The department houses the division of medical psychology which provides psychological consultation and assessment services for Jewish and Barnes hospitals.

Department of Radiology

Each year the Department of Radiology performs more than 70,000 diagnostic examinations, 6,000 radiation therapy treatments and 6,000 nuclear medicine examinations.

Sophisticated equipment and spacious x-ray suites maximize efficiency and convenience for the patients and staff. This equipment includes a computerized axial tomographic (CAT) scanner capable of scanning any area of the body, two stationary and one portable gamma cameras used for radioisotope examinations of the brain, lung and bone.

An ultrasound lab, which uses sound waves to detect and characterize tumor masses and various parts of the body is also available.

One x-ray unit is designed and dedicated specifically for the detection of breast tumors.

Department of Rehabilitation Medicine

The Department of Rehabilitation Medicine operates a 55-bed inpatient service for patients who require intensive rehabilitation for physical disabilities. The department has active programs in physical therapy and occupational therapy for in- and outpatients which help disabled patients to reach a level of independence and permit them to return to a normal social existence. The department is staffed by three full-time physicians, four residents, rehabilitation nurses, physical and occupational therapists, social workers and a psychologist. The Department of Rehabilitation Medicine also includes a Home Care Division where physicians, nurses, social workers and therapists make visits to homes of patients who still require intensive care but no longer need to be in the hospital. The Division of Home Care takes care of an average of 325 patients.

Department of Surgery

The Department of Surgery is widely known for its expertise in thoracic and cardiac surgery, and has pioneered a program in nutritional support for patients unable to eat. (Hyperalimentation) Some of the most modern surgical suites are here, including specially equipped rooms for open heart surgery and orthopedic procedures such as total hip-joint replacement. Other specialties include urology, plastic surgery and vascular surgery. The first ostomy clinic in the St. Louis area, a part of this department, provides special postoperative care and help in readjustment to persons who have undergone colorectal surgery. In this type of surgery, a part of the intestine is removed, leaving an opening in the abdomen.

Teaching Programs

As a major teaching affiliate of the Washington University School of Medicine, Jewish Hospital attracts outstanding medical school graduates to its fellowship, residency and internship programs. Full time physicians direct 125 house officers in professional department including anesthesiology, dentistry, medicine, obstetrics/gynecology, ophthalmology, otolaryngology, pathology and laboratory medicine, psychiatry, radiology, rehabilitation medicine and surgery.

The Jewish Hospital School of Nursing presently is educating over 300 student nurses.

Other Hospital operated schools include radiologic technology (in conjunction with Forest Park Community College), medical technology, a blood bank specialization program, hospital administration, field training for Master's degree social work candidates plus training for undergraduate physical and occupational therapists through their universities. In addition, the Hospital's Department of Education operates the enterostomal therapy school and provides ongoing educational programs for employees.

A Volunteer's Eye-View of Volunteers

by Karen Silverstein
Publications Intern

"I work for Jewish Hospital. I am not a doctor, nor am I a nurse. I am not a cook in the kitchen nor am I an x-ray technician. And I do not get paid."

"What do I do at Jewish Hospital? I learn. I am one of many students who spend their summer months at Jewish Hospital, volunteering services in exchange for experience."

Jewish Hospital is among a small percentage of hospitals throughout the nation which serves the community as a learning institution as well as a health care institution. Most of the doctors on the Medical Staff here are also on the faculty of Washington University Medical School, and students in all areas of health care receive their hospital training at Jewish Hospital.

But aside from these students, who are here to fulfill a requirement for medical school, we students come to Jewish Hospital on our own time to learn without credit. We are technically called "Teen-Aid Volunteers." In practice, we run errands, do odd jobs, and do a lot of watching, but we work as hard as regular Hospital employees.

"This hospital is a community hospital. We feel a responsibility to the community to give young people an opportunity to see what a profession in a health care institution is all about," explained Elaine Levinsohn, Volunteer Coordinator. She stressed that though the Teen-Aid volunteers may not give injections or take blood pressure readings, being exposed to the environment of an emergency room or clinic gives them a better idea of what a profession in health care is like.

This is precisely why most of the students work here during the summer. For the 14-16 year old volunteers, college planning is premature, and most won't realize the value of volunteer hospital work on a college application for years. Barbara Sisson, 16, explained, "I just wanted to see what a hospital is like, and how it runs. You know, behind the scenes." Most volunteers I talked to in this age bracket shared Barbara's curiosity.

Curiosity and an appetite for experience may invite the students for the first few visits, but there must be motives stronger than money to convince volunteers to fulfill their 40-hour minimum requirement.

Exposure to Health Care

Mrs. Levinsohn explained, "Each volunteer has expressed to me a definite interest in doing something in the health care field, either for its career opportunities or because of the feelings of self worth they receive from helping others. We give the students exposure to a field they might be interested in."

A volunteer's age has priority in placing him or her in a specific area. For example, 14 to 15-year-old volunteers work mainly in the Clover Garden, Clinics, Admitting, Pharmacy, Department of Education or the Mailroom. Sixteen-year-olds are allowed to work on the nursing floors, Emergency Room and Operating Room. Yet some are put in areas like Pathology or even Publications—wherever their interests and Elaine Levinsohn take them!

Jeff Davis, 15, thinks about being a doctor someday, but at this point, his interests lie more in photography than in surgery. Thus, he works four days a week in the Electron Microscopy Lab in Pathology, developing film and aiding in preparing specimens for the microscope.

"I've wanted to get into photography, and this has been a good opportunity for me to do it," said Jeff. "I can get a feel of what medicine is actually like without really being involved." After this summer's work, Jeff will have enough skills and experience to get a job during the school year developing film in a cardiac catheterization lab.

Jeff Davis controls the Ultra-Micro-Tome.

Doug Aach's work with mice in Dr. Graff's research labs includes separating mice for order and doing some autopsies. "I know the inside of a mouse real well," he says.

Doug Aach gets valuable experience as a volunteer in Dr. Graff's research labs.

Though some volunteers may simply carry flowers up to patients, answer phones or transport patients, they are still working in a hospital. The opportunity for students to talk with professional medical people and observe the skills involved in a health care field is always there.

Preview of Medical School

"I spend about half an hour out of the four hours I work each Tuesday talking with doctors," said Operating Room volunteer Sam Rosenthal. He talks with them about what he should do to prepare for college, what school was like when they were there and different types of operations.

Alan Bank, 20, wheels patients to and from the Operating Room. His duties will not train him for a Washington University Medical School exam, but he does learn a little about medicine. "By doing my work," he said, "I get to see all parts of the Hospital. I went to the morgue and saw part of an autopsy. It was a lesson directly in front of me, not at all like reading it in a book."

Emergency Room volunteer Jon Rill will be a senior at Colgate University this fall, and the exposure he has had to the health care industry here has had a definite effect on his future. "I'm trying to make the decision if I want to be a doctor or not. The only way for me to decide is to see what a doctor really does," Jon said. After his experience at Jewish Hospital, medical school applications are almost certainly in Jon's future.

"I've had this fear that I might not like the sight of blood," explained David German, Operating Room volunteer. David has found, though, that not only does blood not bother him, but he, too, wants to go to medical school.

Experience is Valuable to Volunteers

Experience and exposure in a hospital setting is an advantage on college applications for the incoming medical student. Each of the volunteers said that the appearance of hospital volunteer work in his or her employment history was a strong incentive.

Working at a job for no pay is definitely a sacrifice. But it is this sacrifice the volunteers make for the satisfaction of gaining experience in the field of health care, and helping the Hospital and the community.
